

Literature Review

A Literature Review is a way to explore what's already been studied about your research topic. Through these sites, you can find relevant articles, books, and other resources to help you understand key ideas, discover gaps in the research, and build a solid base for your work. It's a great place to start when entering into your research. The listed platforms are excellent starting points for navigating the scholarly landscape across diverse subject areas.

Google Scholar

J-Gate

JSTOR

SSRN

SCOPUS

Web of Science

Thesis & Dissertations

Theses and Dissertations are comprehensive academic documents that present original research or findings in a specific field of study, typically written by graduate or doctoral students as part of their degree requirements. These works are essential for advancing knowledge and offering detailed insights into various academic subjects. You can access various theses and dissertations from institutions worldwide through specific online platforms and databases.

Shodhganga

NDLTD

PQDT

